

The Look: Black Male Experience

Dana Barrett
Radio Personality
Host the Dana Barrett
Show

Dana Barrett is a former tech executive, serial entrepreneur, and award-winning TV, Radio & Podcast host. She has also been a regular contributor to Forbes Headline News, and the Atlanta Business Chronicle and is a frequent event emcee, moderator and keynote speaker. In all of these roles, Dana has been an advocate for equal opportunity, diversity and inclusion. In her technology career, Dana successfully led racially and gender diverse teams of software developers and graphic artists, and in her media career she has been recognized as a “Diversity Game Changer” by the Technology Association of Georgia.

She made it a point when hosting TV’s Atlanta Tech Edge, and on her radio shows at biz1190 AM, and Talk Radio 640 WGST AM to highlight topics and leaders who are making a difference, not only financially, but when it comes to moving us culturally forward to a place of equality. She has been an outspoken supporter of pay transparency, and systemic change.

While Dana’s new podcast Bizography focuses on the history of iconic businesses, Dana finds the lessons for modern times in these stories and shares them with listeners. The podcast is produced by the iHeart Podcast Network, (formerly How Stuff Works) and is available via all podcast platforms.

On the personal side, Dana is a graduate of Cornell University, a single mom, a breast cancer survivor, and runs one of Atlanta’s largest and longest running public book clubs with over 900 members subscribed.
